

■■ Comic Craft: Problem Statement Definition (PDE)

Every compelling comic needs an inciting conflict. This framework structures the core user friction point as the ultimate narrative obstacle to overcome.

1. The 4 Ws Narrative Breakdown

- The Protagonist (Who): The target user persona traversing our application environment.
- The Villain / Conflict (What): The critical friction point or system hurdle blocking progress.
- The Battleground (Where): The specific step, page, or interface layout where conflict occurs.
- The Stakes (Why): The business or personal cost resulting from leaving the villain undefeated.

2. Core Conflict Statement

"Our core protagonist faces an overwhelming administrative hurdle because the interface introduces too many manual panel actions to log workflows, leading to lost tracking momentum, user fatigue, and ultimate abandonment of the narrative universe."

3. Victory Metrics

- Primary Objective: Drive engagement up by 25% through streamlining interface panels.
- Secondary Objective: Drop error rates and manual retro-logs by 40%.
